

The 2019 Naomi Berber Memorial Award

The graphic communications industry's only award specifically honoring women

Sponsored by Printing Industries of America's Ben Franklin Honor Society

Naomi Berber

Deadline: Nominations must be postmarked or emailed by July 31, 2019.

Why Nominate Someone?

Berber Award recipients join more than thirty outstanding women from the graphic communications industry, such as Jules Van Sant, Janet Green, Julie McFarland, and Dr. Twyla Cummings. An engraved plaque is presented to the recipient to commemorate her accomplishments.

The Berber Award will be presented at Printing Industries of America's Fall Administrative Meetings, November 15-17 in Houston, TX. This forum hosts an impressive audience of industry leaders, including boards of directors and committee members from Printing Industries of America, its Ben Franklin Honor Society, and the Print and Graphics Scholarship Foundation (PGSF).

Eligibility Requirements

1. A candidate must have worked in the graphic communications industry for ten years or more.
2. A candidate must have an outstanding record of accomplishments that demonstrate her unusual contribution toward the development of the graphic communications industry; such contributions could be in the form of extraordinary leadership, direction, and/or support of programs or projects that have furthered the interests of the industry.
3. A candidate's activities must have extended over a period of time, and her contribution should not be confined to a single project, development, or program.

More consideration will be given to candidates with significant volunteer work in the graphic communications field or whose accomplishments have been outside of their job description. Previous winners are not eligible for a second award. Candidates do not have to be Printing Industries of America members.

How to Nominate Someone

- Using the eligibility requirements as a guideline, provide a detailed description of the candidate's major contributions and/or significant accomplishments. Descriptions should be no longer than three pages.
- Complete the nomination form.
- Additional supporting information such as letters of support, a formal biographical description, or a résumé for the candidate are not required but are welcomed.
